

I have known Kathy Littlefield for a long time and always found her to be a caring, compassionate, and most of all reasonable person. As a City Council member, she has excelled at being a representative of the citizens of Scottsdale, one of the few council members who really represents US. Her decisions have been based on what she feels citizens want, not what property owners, developers, zoning attorneys, or others who exploit Scottsdale's desirability for personal profit want. She researches each project, that comes before the council, and makes an informed decision based on how it impacts the city as a whole and its residents. If it doesn't benefit the city or its residents she doesn't vote for it. Often she is the lone dissenting vote because most other council members don't properly educate themselves on decisions they will make and also have a bias toward pleasing their friends and donors instead of doing what is best for Scottsdale. As a result, she doesn't get donations from those who seek to profit from city council decisions, but rather from just ordinary taxpaying citizens who know she represents them.

I can't think of a more qualified person to be our representative on the city council, or a person I would rather have on the council than Kathy. We need her, and more like her, on the city council to preserve our quality of life.
